M. E. INSTITUTE CLOSES

With Brilliant Lecture-Meeting One of the Most Successful Ever Held

The institute closed last night with a a most glorious climax.

For some unexplainable reason the lecturer with his lantern and slides failed to reach the city. As the announcement was made to the audience there was a cloud of disappointment that settled and sat upon the faces of the au-Dr. Morris was introduced to the audience and that cloud was soon dispelled by the inner light of rapt attention that riveted the interest upon the scenes that passed before us. As the lecturer with his pictures failed to appear, Dr. Morris announced that he would show to us some of the pictures that for years had been hanging upon the walls of his memory. With words as delicate tints and glorious hues and with the imagination as the canvass, he stood and for one hour transferred a part of his splendid gallery to all those whose imagination was sensitive enough to receive it. With the art of a master he lead us from place to place till distances were lost and discomforts Exposition. were forgotten. He stood with us at the Niagra Falls; we watched it plunge from the Canadian side and walked around and felt its spray and heard its roar from the American shore. He showed us clouds which in their twisted shapes made gigantic forms that were equal to titantic tasks. We climbed the rugged sides of Mt. Vesuvius and watched the molten river flow from a stab in its heart; we stood at its crater and for one brief minute looked down and in and saw a hundred baby volcanoes spit and sputter preparing for mighty roar and rumble that should soon make the earth about, to tremble and the seas to surge. We stood in the Cathedral at Antwerp and looked upon the immortal masterpieces of Reubens; as we beheld the "Crucifixtion" and the "Descent from the Cross," "our hearts burned within us." We sailed along on the placid bay and saw the silver of the moon playing upon the deep; and dipped our hands in the phosphorescent waters that lay about us. We stood upon the shore on a hot summer afternoon and beheld the mirage that inverted the ships on the sea, masts touching masts as they were perfectly balanced by the Manchester. illusion. We walked through the great gallery at Louvre and stopped long enough to see the great picture of "The Flood"-one antedeluvian clinging with one hand to a breaking limb of a lone tree with the deluge lapping at his feet and his whole family clinging about him and crying for Welsh of Danville. recue. We steamed upon the bosom of the skimming behind us, in front of us and beside Osborne, in the county. us like the fabled dolphins. We walked the

we caught our breath as we beheld on the waves

the disaster had occurred. We saw icebergs like floating mountains slowly moving toward the waters of the South soon to melt down into the sea. We walked along the "Appian Way" and our feet touched the same flaggings that had been pressed by the feet of the Apostle Paul.

We halted for a moment at the Three Taverns was supposed to have died at the hands of the executioner. We looked into the sacred circle of a home, we saw two children, a boy and a the brow is wrinkled and the cheeks no longer rotund; the eyes are now dimming and we witness the triumphant death scene of the mother of the lecturer. At the midnight hour we walk the deck of the ship with its Captain on the North side of Scotland and are waiting for the dying of today and the birth of tomorrow; just as the dying rays of today seem to depart, we see the light of tomorrow tinting the Eastern sky until in the zenith above us the rays of two days mingle and there is no night there. Thus when we look for the evening star at the close of life and expect our career to go out in the night, and the dark, the rays of two days shall mingled above us and there shall be no night, there for "unto him that overcometh will I give the Morning Star."

A committee brought in a set of resolutions that expressed thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the Institute. The house was comfortably filled and everyone went away feeling that it was "good to have been there." With the benediction by Dr. Walsh, closed one of the most successful, Institutes ever held in the bounds of the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

An era of good feeling between the railroads and the public, with consequent beneficient effort upon the material welfare of the U.S., is predicted by Martin A. Hon. William Houston Cox, Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor, was born in Maysville, October 22d, 1856.

He is a son of the late George Cox, a pioneer merchant, has served several times as Mayor of Maysville and is one of the wealthiest property owners of the county. He is a thirty-seconddegree Mason, the Grand Lodge representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., and a State Senator in the present Legislature from the Thirty-first District.

His prominence as a churchman is attested by his appointment on the Cathedral Chapter of the Diocese of Lexington under Bishop Burton. His marked business ability, integrity of character and beautiful home life all conspire to emphasize his popularity throughout the state.

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost.

WITHIN the last decade great and rapid strides have been made in Materia Medica. Many diseases that were considered incurable fifteen years ago are now cured in a few days, and in many cases prevented altogether. The scientists of late years have been delving for the cause, the foundation, the reason and the starting point of disease, fully realizing that the actual and true cause must be ascertained before the remedy can be located. Hair troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp, and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. . It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

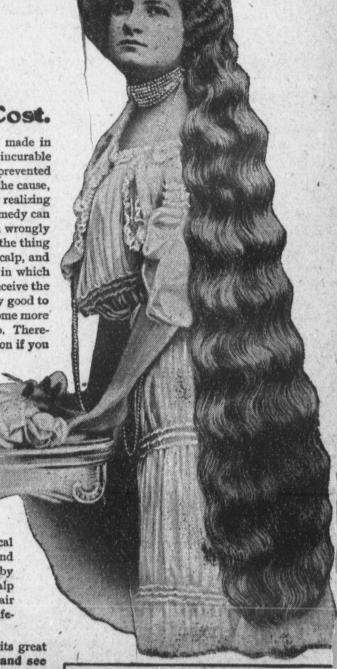

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment, and when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all of its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural and logical thing to do in either case is, feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is identical with the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp. It feeds and nourishes the hair and does all the work originally carried on by the natural nutrients or life-giving juices generated by the scalp itself. It penetrates the pores of the scalp quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and lifeproducing qualities.

One twenty-five-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy-try it and see for yourself. Now on sale at every drug and toilet store in the land. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Women troubled with fainting spells, irregularities, nervous irritability, backache, the "blues," and those dreadful dragging sensations, cannot hope to be happy or popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible.

The cause of these troubles, however, yfelds quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs. "SNAKES"

Was the Cry Which Startled The Ledger Printery Yesterday Afternoon

Whenever there's anything good or startling in the old city, J. Barbour Russell always kindly rushes or sends it across the street and 'divides" with us and gives THE PUBLIC LED-GER a square deal.

Yesterday afternoon when the force was numping itself on tomorrow's LEDGBR, in walks a big colored man carrying in his hand by the tail, an immense snake of the "cow-sucker" variety, as the colored man called it. He said as he held up the still wriggling monster:

"Here's a little present Mr. Barbour Russel sent THE LEDGER, with his compliments."

Of course, the Editor was "dee-lighted" to receive such a token of friendly appreciation but was forced to decline it, with thanks, because Mr. Russell didn't accompany his gift with a quart of his best Niagra snake medicine The sudden appearance of the still wriggling reptile almost caused a panic among the typequieted the uprising by making Mr. Coloredman skiddoo with his snakeship.

The snake measured 5 feet 3 inches and was killed in the yard of the residence of Mr. Bowman on East Fourth street about 1:15 yesterday afternoon.

This is a sign that summer is here.
